A series of lectures by distinguished practitioners in diplomacy and international relations will be held throughout the 2009/10 and 2010/11 academic years, exploring the theme of 'International Relations in the New Global Order'. The Series celebrates the launch of International Relations as a discipline within the Department of Politics.

The lecture series is designed to make an important contribution to the development of thought on a range of issues concerning how international relations connect with pressing questions of nationhood, security, global business and financial stability.

Queen Mary is delighted to welcome Maurice Gourdault-Montagne, Ambassador of France to the United Kingdom, to speak on these issues.

Future events in this series:

Tuesday 16 March 2010, 6.30pm

His Excellency Carles Casajuana,
Ambassador of Spain to the United Kingdom

Dates to be confirmed:

His Excellency Carlos Augusto Santos-Neves,
Ambassador of Brazil to the United Kingdom.

His Excellency Wajid Shamsul Hasan, High Commissioner of Pakistan to the United Kingdom (this event was due to take place on Tuesday 13 October and has been rescheduled).
